ADAM NESS GIVES BACK TO POTOMAC SCHOOL

Adam Ness has made a monetary contribution to Potomac School because he wants to give back to a place that had a positive impact on him. He also remembers how exciting it was when he was here as a student and our school was given new basketballs or new uniforms were purchased. He has fond memories of Potomac School. Here is a short bio from Adam:

After finishing up at Potomac I went to Hellgate High School and graduated in 2009. That August, I left for the Marine Corps and served until the spring of 2013. In the fall of 2013 I started at Lafayette College in Easton, PA going for my bachelor's in Electrical and Computer Engineering. In May 2017, I graduated and started a job as an Electrical Engineer here in North Dakota. I'm currently working on product development and support for a small manufacturing company here in Dickinson.

THANK YOU, ADAM!
